“Spirit of the Republic”

The challenge for the BC Monument Committee was to create a symbolic and historic monument to honour the courage and valour of the British Columbian and other Canadian volunteers who fought in the Spanish Civil War (1936-39).

Of the 1600 Canadian volunteers, some 600 members of the Mackenzie-Papineau Battalion wear the Spanish earth as their shroud. The memory of these valiant men and women is the inextricable link between the people of Spain who chose an elected form of government and the volunteers who went to Spain to defend that choice.

Phase 1 of the monument was unveiled on December 4, 1998. The basalt pillars were chosen because of their similarity to rock formations in the Ebro Sector in Spain. The pillars were quarried near Squamish, BC, and generously donated by the quarry owner, Mr. Doug MacDonald. They symbolize the rough ground of the battlefields of Spain and the lack of cover encountered by the ill-equipped Canadian volunteers. Three of the pillars are arranged in a “V” shape to symbolize the eventual victory of the Spanish Republic, after 45 years of dictatorship, upon the death of General Franco in 1975. These three columns each have a bronze medallion affixed to them: the emblem of the Veterans of the Mackenzie-Papineau Battalion, the dogwood blossom commemorating the British Columbian volunteers, and the emblem of the International Brigades whose volunteers came from 53 different countries.

The bronze plaque gives a brief history of events that overtook the Second Republic of Spain in 1936 when the elected popular front Republican Government was confronted by the fascist uprising lead by Franco and his generals, generously supplied with arms, aircraft, materiel and troops by Hitler and Mussolini. It has been said if the elected Republican Government of Spain had prevailed against the insurgent forces of General Franco, there might never had been a Second World War (1939–1945).

Internationally renowned sculptor, Jack Harman, has created the magnificent bronze “Spirit of the Republic”. His inspiration came from a Spanish allegorical portrait, dated April 14, 1931, and from a series of posters illustrating created during the Spanish Civil War depicting the defence of the Republic and the ideals of a democratically elected government.

The sculpture is identifiable Spanish with its Basque cap and crown (representing Spain’s regions and architecture), the rope sandals (alpargatas) on her feet, and the laurel wreath of the Spanish Republic held in her hand. This lovely figure portrays the strength, dignity, determination and beauty of a people who aspired to establish a democratic government. Jack Harman has captured in her face the sadness of this slow victory at such a high cost. The dove of peace in her left hand is representative and characteristic of all nationalities and people who desire peace and democratic governments.

Jack Harman created a figure that reflects the 1930’s, reminding us of what might have been had the Spanish Republican Government been able to obtain arms to defend itself against the fascist coup d’etat that became the Spanish Civil War. May this monument to the courage and valour of the Mackenzie-Papineau Battalion during the Spanish Civil War (1936-39) keep alive in our hearts the idea that democracy is worth defending.

RED MOON

And the same pallid moon tonight,
Which rides so quietly, clear and high,
The mirror of our pale and troubled gaze
Raised to a cool Canadian sky.

Above the shattered Spanish tops
Last night rose low and wild and red,
Reflecting back from her illumined shield
The blood bespattered faces of the dead.

To that pale disc we raise our clenched fists,
And to those nameless dead our vows renew,
“Comrades, who fought for freedom and the future world,
Who died for us, we will remember you.”

Norman Bethune (1936)
